PreSonus Studio One 3 Professional v7.2.1.35201-R2RÄ .Q: Unexpected behavior when initializing event handler using array I have an event handler that is firing correctly when I declare the event handler method within the class. However, when I try to store the same method, then add it to an array to have access to it in different classes. The event fires on object.Event.Handled but the MessageBox only fires once. I have tried this using either 1 or 2 methods but both seem to fire the message box incorrectly. This is in the Form1 class: public partial class Form1 : Form { private int _counter; private void ProcessButton(object sender, EventArgs e) { int index = _counter++; //MessageBox.Show(index); Event eEvent = new Event(_counter); eEvent.Hndl += new EventHandler(ProcessButton); eEvent.Hndl += new EventHandler(ProcessButton); eEvent.Hndl += ProcessButton; eEvent.Invoke(); } public Form1() { InitializeComponent(); _counter = 0; } And this is in one of the other classes: public class MyClass { public MyClass() { ProcessButton += delegate(object s, EventArgs e)
