^The last few months I've found quite a few scenarios where Autocad LT 2013 can be a very powerful text editor, however it has failed to live up to its full potential. Conclusions {#s:conclusions} ===== We investigated the effectiveness of using inter-cell interference in the downlink of cellular networks in highly overloaded dense scenarios. We were able to identify the regime where the effect of inter-cell interference is negligible, since such situation is characterized by the fact that the average number of interference terms in the received signal tends to infinity. The number of interfering cells is a central parameter. When it is low, inter-cell interference can be useful in order to efficiently exploit limited resources and reach the optimal achieved downlink spectral efficiency. This effect gets smaller as the number of interfering cells increases due to the enlarged interference terms. A critical range for the number of interfering cells was identified. In this range, inter-cell interference in the cellular downlink is negligible for the high-load scenario. This result can be applied to many contexts where the users receive multiple signals from different base stations. This work was supported by Vodafone Deutschland GmbH and HSI-NRW.
