- Characteristics of gilts susceptible to mycoplasma infection and the effects of immunization with Mycoplasma hyopneumoniae. Wether gilts could be divided into 4 groups by their reaction to Mycoplasma hyopneumoniae antigen based on their reactivity to the antiserum and the presence of specific IgG. These groups were represented in the following percentages: Group 1 (18.9%) consisted of gilts which reacted with the antiserum and produced high levels of specific antibodies; Group 2 (34.4%) consisted of gilts which reacted with the antiserum but produced low levels of specific antibodies; Group 3 (40.6 6d1f23a050
