Smaller Chinese-language media players cannot compete with the big daily newspapers. In Toronto, for example, the China News newspaper, which has been published every two weeks since 1992 . For the most part, local newspapers in China cover events that are associated with a particular city, and sometimes news from other countries are published. For example, in Beijing, the Xinhua newspaper reports on events taking place in the United States, and in Sydney on events in China. Many

Chinese newspapers also report news from other regions of the world, although local information dominates. dd2bc28256
