While Grand Theft Auto is generally recognized as a hedonistic, anti-social, nihilistic and humorous virtual world, it is also quite political. The game has been used as a conduit for real world messages and opinions and Rockstar Games have indicated that they are aware that most of the game's content is intended to be socially and politically critical. The game's depiction of a big city, and the fast-paced action sequences, emphasize a heavy, hyper-violence which may be seen as controversial as it feels very different from previous games from the franchise. Citizen's Band - Unit 45 (Citizen's Band radio) - High-end radio from 1974 - cheap and very rare, you can find it in industrial areas. "The radio will broadcast GTA San Andreas's kill count. The cop's will not respond until the count is equal to or greater than the amount of people kidnapped within the area." In order for the battle to begin in the skies, the cop's will need to drive by the mob and kill them (make sure to use the helicopter); and they must then drive by the protagonist's house. Bumper Hack - This hack was first used by /u/holli_goats on the subreddit GrandTheftAuto/ . Once you reach the point where the informant tries to rip off Rosato, you need to kill the police officer using the Getaway Car on the left, then enter a private garage on the other side of the fence, and then get out. (Keep in mind, as soon as you enter, the "fighting" in the sky will start.) Once you've done that, the game should carry on. The same technique can be used in most of the Warlords, including the Cartel Warship and the Happy Wheels. Use the game's forensics tools to find the Sidewinder. It will be locked in the seam of the car, and at the end, it will be in the trunk. Sonic Weapon Hack - This hack is used in GTA Liberty City Stories. You need to fight the gang next to the halfway house, and destroy the car containing three cops. 5ec8ef588b
