Aloko Udapadi Sinhala Movie 81 2021

The film Aloko Udapadi is a gem of a film. To my mind, it is definitely Sri Lankan cinema's most superior film. Anybody who says that this is nothing more than a mediocre (read: epically bad) hackjob is not telling the whole truth. Indeed, its an absolute masterpiece in that regard. I don't know how it is? If it is, I must try it out. I do watch ''Pt. Perfect'', ''Rajakilindaya'', ''Mesa'', ''Sarath'' and ''Uttarathai?'' movies. Sometimes I watch these movies. You may like it too. ''After reading some accounts of the film by notable Sinhala cinema experts, I came to the conclusion that the film director, Chathra, has chosen to make a film that is 100 percent gratifying to the Sinhala man. His film does not dwell or hew to any particular political, social or historical agenda. He has chosen the best story possible which is a story we can all relate to. The main theme of the film is the strength of the resilience of the Sinhalese people after centuries of foreign occupation, where their moral strength, their nationalism, their loyalty, their integrity and their accomplishments are constantly being challenged, yet they always manage to triumph. The courage of these people is without reservation and their character is that of any other people in the world. Many aspects of the film, including the music and cinematography, are top-notch. The Sri Lankan people and the rest of the world have much to learn from the struggle of the Sri Lankan people to maintain their culture and honor their traditions and identities. For me, this is the first Sinhala national cinema that reflects the true spirit of the Sri Lankan people. It may be a little late, but I hope it will be the beginning of a revolution and from there, something good will come out of it.''
