The only way that the selected image is displayed is by selecting it from the device camera (or camaro) and pressing one of the shown buttons. Is there any way that I can resize the image to a certain width and height while it's being used? I saw that I can resize the image in an `imagePicker.photoSizeImage`, but how can I resize it while it's being used? (not previewing the image) A: There are a couple of options: Hide the keyboard (if it is the original `UIImagePickerController`) Resize the image on upload (not while picking) Upload the image to a server you control and resize there.
