Office document restoration tool is a program that recovers text from damaged and corrupt Microsoft Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Access and Outlook documents. The program extracts text from these damaged and corrupt Office documents in the same way as a human reader does. This recovery program supports all versions of Microsoft Office and Apache OpenOffice. It is a standalone software that does not require any other programs and is therefore very useful for those who want to keep their documents safe for the future. The program is a stand-alone utility that can be run directly from the hard drive. You can use it to restore files without having to install the program on your PC. It can recover any type of data, including files, images and documents. The program is extremely efficient, so you will never be able to notice that the program is running. You can search for the files that you want the program to restore and then choose the files to restore. After that, you can either start the recovery process or wait for it to finish. The program does not take much time to complete and it will return the files that you want to. It is very easy to use and you will not have any problems.
