MailDominion can be used to remove unwanted e-mails from your POP3 server. MailDominion is fully automatic and stores the information it gathers during the scans to improve the next run. MailDominion can remove unwanted e-mails by studying the contents of the e-mails you receive, such as the sender, content, size, date, etc. The program will then decide if the e-mail is a normal one or junk mail. It will then continue to remove e-mails that are not junk, but if the next e-mail the program finds on the server is junk, it will then remove that e-mail as well. MailDominion has a nice GUI (Graphical User Interface), which makes it very easy to use. MailDominion does not replace your mailhost, it will remove junk mail from your pop3 server directly, without your email provider knowing. This is done by telling MailDominion to analyze all e-mails from the server, and storing this information. This allows you to use MailDominion on multiple POP3 servers and the information will be loaded between the scans. MailDominion has a lot of functionality, it can be used to automatically: Delete unwanted e-mails, based on an exclusion list; Remove spam e-mails based on rules you provide, for example; Delete duplicate or weird e-mails; Delete all or certain e-mails with a certain subject; and much more... MailDominion can also delete e-mails from your server with the help of an automated backup script. You can use MailDominion either as a stand alone program or you can install it on your e-mail server as a Windows service. If you use it as a Windows service, you can specify your own schedule or use the Windows built-in service scheduling. You can also use MailDominion as a Windows service even if you don't have access to the operating system of your server. This is a typical scenario for us. However, you will still be able to use the Windows scheduler and can configure the program to work with a scheduled backup. MailDominion is completely FREE and is based on the C# language. It can be compiled for .NET versions 3.0, 3.5, and 4.0. It uses the .NET Framework for service scheduling. MailDominion is able to remove unwanted e-mails from Microsoft Exchange Server, Apple Mail Server, and WebMail. 2edc1e01e8
