Selective inhibition of nuclear factor- κ B (NF- κ B) has emerged as a key target in the treatment of immune-mediated inflammatory diseases. Here we present the first crystal structure of a peptidyl inhibitor bound to a B-cell receptor kinase-SH3-domain complex. This inhibitor is the first crystal structure for a peptidyl small molecule inhibitor of NF- κ B. The inhibitor crystallized in a similar conformation in the active site of the Btk SH3-domain as found in all structures of Btk SH3-domain complexes. Using this inhibitor a stable holo-enzyme complex could be generated. The inhibitor was found to be a highly potent and selective inhibitor of NF- κ B activation by Btk, which inhibits both classical and alternative NF- κ B signaling pathways. In addition to targeting Btk/Src-family kinase SH3-domains in malignant B-cell lymphomas, this inhibitor may serve as a valuable tool for studying the function of the Btk/Src-family kinase SH3 domains and for the development of novel small molecule NF- κ B inhibitors.WANT TO RECRUIT? We were contacted by a company seeking to recruit their brand ambassadors to promote a new skincare line on TV. The brief was simple. They wanted a woman to feature in a TV commercial for their brand. We thought this would be an ideal opportunity for us to engage with a younger audience. However, the company had been targeting our demographic previously, so it wasn't a completely novel idea. But we wanted to ensure that we presented the campaign in a way that would stand out. We worked together to create a great brand image that would appeal to a youthful, female audience. We created a campaign that would fit the brand, and give them a real piece of TV advertising.
