Rahnama is a Persian word meaning "book" or "sister". It may also mean the "book of life". The print dictionary is composed of two parts, "Udail-o-Shahjahan" (Shah Jahangir) and "Rahnama-e-Mokhtasar" (Shah Ismail). Rahnama means "book of life". This word is well adapted in the context of this dictionary because the book contains the "life" (Ruhi) in form of life sentences and its information contains the knowledge that is necessary to be humanly functional. So, the dictionary is the "life" for the learner of Urdu in the domain of Urdu language. In the archive of this dictionary, you can find one hundred thousand words in Urdu or other languages and in the form of phrases or sentences. Words are separated into different categories. And in each category, the words are placed in alphabetical order. ...
