Facts Mr Kazen was a Department Manager. He was made redundant in 1988 and was entitled to apply for a bonus. The County council argued that the application was not a protected request under the Working Time Regulations. Mr Kazen won.

Judgment The Court of Appeal held that Mr Kazen's claim was protected under the Working Time Regulations. The Lord Justice Laws gave the lead judgment. The Court held that Mr Kazen was a 'worker', and a bonus could be claimed under the Working Time Regulations. See also United Kingdom labour law Notes References External links

British law Our women's pride protest at the UNWC/MUD site on September 14, was the largest turnout since the men's protest in July 2011.

Women's rights have been undermined in Haiti during the past eight years of UN occupation by a combination of corrupt UN-led UN Security Council regimes, so it was very encouraging to see so many people come out and stand with us on the streets.

On September 14, more than 1500 people came out in Port-au-Prince to the UN Complex in solidarity with the women who are at the center of the Popular Assembly Movement (M.A.P.) - a coalition of women for a dignified social and political reconstruction of Haiti. As we walk together we
