I have the following string of time (exemplary): "01:00" This I want to convert to a time object in python using datetime. I have tried the following datetime.time(*string) This throws an error: ValueError: incorrect number of format specifiers However, I can run print str(datetime.time('01:00')) And this print the time object I want, but I am not able to convert this back to a string. I have tried the following: return repr(str(datetime.time('01:00'))) This throws an error: TypeError: 'float' object is not callable So I am wondering what the best way to convert the time
